

New Horizons Un-Limited Community Forum Now On-line!

Would you like to find a support group of other individuals coping with disability?
Would you be willing to share a resource you have found helpful?
Sharing and talking to others about issues can help reduce the stress of disability

On our NHU Community Forum you can find much more:

- Share your disability story with others who may be facing similar situations.
- Visit or share your inspirational messages, poetry and art.
- Share your knowledge or solutions with others or benefit from others.
- Tell us what you think about disability issues and discuss your views with people from all over the world!
- Post or find News and Events from your community disability organization.
- Find and share tips on researching your disability.
- Find answers to questions on using and maintaining your computer.
- Check out or list classified ads for disability equipment.
- Personal message others through our NHU Community Forum. As an alternative to e-mail, personal messaging on our forum provides a faster, more private method to a friend's private mailbox on our forum.

To register on the forum, you must have a user name, password and an e-mail address. To maintain your privacy, check the box to hide your e-mail address.

Visit our on-line NHU Community Forum Today!

Go to: <http://www.new-horizons.org/forum/>